The questionnaire then moved on to ask people to rate their experiences of Social Care Services. Respondent numbers were very low for these questions and results are shown at figure 12.

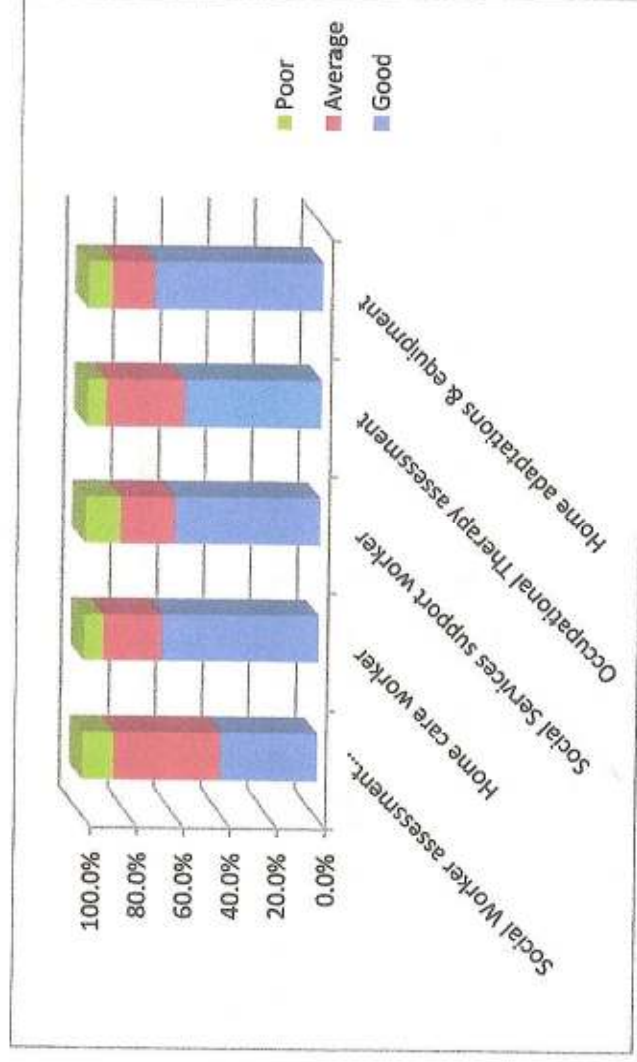

Figure 12: How Social Care Services were rated by those that used them.

75% of those who answered (52 respondents) believed the time taken between assessment and resolution and been average or good, the remaining 25% stating poor. There is some difficulty with use of this data due to the small sample size, and to the fact that there is no qualifying data to understand or measure a poor service.

The final question on existing services, focussed on the role of the Voluntary/Charitable social or health care services used by respondents. Response rates to this question were low, and the results are shown in the table below:

Voluntary Car Service	26	38.2%
Fit & Fun, Healthy Friendships (Mental Distress)	3	4.4%
